Verify Accreditation

Laws and regulations surrounding investor accreditation are intended to help protect investors by ensuring that they have the necessary financial means and knowledge to take the risks inherent in more complex or sophisticated investments.

You are an accredited investor if you have any of the following:

- Annual income greater than $200k (in each of the last 2 years and expected this year)
- Joint annual household income greater than $300k (in each of the last 2 years and expected this year)
- Net worth exceeding $1M, excluding your primary residence, either individually or jointly with your spouse
